Stay ahead: Communicate!

The fact that we, as a species, are communicative by nature has played a key role in our evolutionary success. And for the modern economy, which is becoming increasingly dependent on our intellectual and creative productivity, communication is all-important. Modern office environments therefore have to offer many and various opportunities for interaction. Both on a professional and private level. Sedus meet chair & table is an intelligent, comprehensive and particularly flexible range which is able to meet precisely these demands. Productive well-being as defined by Sedus Place 2.5. For more information on this, go to www.place2point5.com.

Going forward together.

Meetings are of central importance in the working lives of modern knowledge workers. So it's good to know that ensuring efficient working conditions and creating the right foundations for optimal results couldn't be easier: with the Sedus meet chair & table range.

For outstanding ideas.

Studies have shown that those who occasionally stand up to think develop measurably more ideas than those who remain seated. An upright posture can also have a positive effect on the duration and efficiency of meetings. For this reason, elegant standing tables and bar stools have also been included in this range.

Row linkage.
Intelligent clip system, can be fitted without the need for tools, also with seat and row numbering.

Stacking and transport trolley.
A practical accessory for simple transportation and space-saving storage.

Are you in need of talented multi-taskers?

Thanks to their light-weight design and the fact that they can be stacked, the meet chairs are multi-functional: in conference rooms or during meetings at the workstation, for workshops or a relaxed break in the bistro. The chairs can be linked together quickly and simply and provide comfortable seating for courses, presentations and occasional corporate events. Upon request, these chairs are also available in flame-resistant materials in accordance with statutory fire prevention guidelines.

An invitation to start networking.

Great ideas rarely emerge from behind closed doors or from a single brain. Thinking is a networking process which starts with a spark in the brain; thinking in groups serves to make this process even more potent. Informal meeting areas in particular are key to ensuring a sense of well-being in the office, as well as to fostering hallway chat, during which a large part of corporate know-how is exchanged. The Sedus meet chair & table range provides perfect meeting points for this – in break rooms, bistros and conference rooms. With high-quality materials, first-class comfort and a complementary design for every office interior.

Communication starts by bringing people together around a table. The table is a place where people meet to talk, plan, discuss, learn together, drink coffee and collaborate. The Sedus meet table range is the ideal solution for all of these applications. Whether as a bistro table with aluminium five-star base, a stackable model with four-leg frame, whether round or square or as a standing table on its own or as part of a "team" – meet has the answer! The slimline table tops are easy to care for and particularly elegant.
